

Savor Every Bit of the Flavor of
One of Japan's Three Great Heritage Breeds of Chicken

Purebred Nagoya Cochin

The Nagoya Cochin is a high-grade breed of chicken produced at in the late nineteenth century by crossing the native Owari Jidori breed with a buff Cochin breed imported from China. The meat, from free-range birds matured for 150 days, is distinguished by a reddish color, deeply rich flavor, and pleasing texture. The meat is also low in fat and mineral-rich, making it especially popular among women diners. Kululu partners directly with a Cochin ranch, so you can enjoy fresh Nagoya Cochin at reasonable prices.
